Favorites Succeed at Sheepshead Bay. It was delightfully cool at the Sheepshead Bay track yesterday afternoon, and another crowd of 15,000 persons came down from the city to enjoy the sport. But the picking of was at a premium before the end of the card was reached. Only two favorites came home with the money.

Fred Burlew's Hooray was a hot choice at 7 to 5 in the Pansy Stakes, for two-yearids, six furlongs on the turf; but after making me bulk of the running he stopped in the stretch and W. H. Snyder's Anodyne, 7 to 1, won by a length and a half in 1:14. Hooray was half a length before James R. Keene's 7 to 1, who was messed about con-

August Belmont's Blandy, an even money August before the handicap for three-year-olds and upward, at a mile and a half, in supurb style. Odom let him breeze along behind H. K. Vingut's Bellatrix, 12 to 1, who et the pace for a mile, and then cut him the wire after that, where he won by two and a half lengths in 2:35. Bellatrix stood drive and kept the place from Voladay, to 1, by half a length. James R. Keene's Von Tromp, 13 to 5, quit at three-quarters of mile. Blandy gave 23 pounds to Bellatrir, 13 to Voladay and 7 to Von Tromp.

FRANK TYLER'S BIG WINNINGS

HUMMING BIRD CLEANS UP $80. OOO IN ONE WEEK.

Denies Report That He Will Retire From Bookmaking-Charley Heineman Stopped With a Complimentary Ticket Sullivans Do Not Bet on Arabo.

A story was in circulation at the Sheepshead Bay track yesterday that Frank Tyler, the "Humming Bird," who is the leader of the independent layers operating in the permanently from the bookmaking business sat with a party of friends down at the Bay conversation he told them that as he had had concluded to get out of the game and which has made him well known to racelast Saturday. For that reason, he told his friends, he had had enough. But it seems that asked him during the races yesterday if he was 'No. I'm not going to quit yet! The game has been making one of the biggest books in the ring. He has made his own prices and has also been betting heavily on the side. He wagered $3,000 on Chimney Sweep in the first race yesterday, $1,000 on Tickle in the second, $3,500 on Blandy in the third, and so on. His retirement would be warmly welcomed by the Mets, who have tried in vain to have him pushed back among the small came to the track yesterday with a complimentary grandstand and which bore no name. When he was about to deposit the coupon in the box a Finkerton notified the bookmaker that he would have to pay the usual $3 fee. Heineman was taken upletely by surprise and started to argue, but was informed that a free badge in the case of a layer could not be honored. When the tracks they were told that they would body else. Their season tickets were taken into the track on a "comp," but it will probably be some time before another Met will try the same game.

Souther to the same game.

Big Tim Sullivan will sail for Europe on the Campania to-day, and it is safe to say that he will not forget while on the ocean the chance he had yesterday to win back some of the money he has dropped to the books recently. Big Tim started Arabo in his colors in the first race. Burton, a stable boy, had the leg up, and when the Congressman asked his trainer, Archie Zimmer, if the horse was worth a bet the latter replied that he did not think it was a safe investment in such a big field and with such a lot of green jockers in the saddle. So Arabo went up in the betting to 8 to 1 and the word was passed around among the faithful that the "Big Fellow" was not betting. Then when Arabo suddenly loomed up in the stretch when the Tammanyites had been vainly looking for him among the ruck horses, as he got away poorly at the post, there was a cry of dismay which swelled into a roar of anger as the Nomad horse finally won by a head. Big Tim, Little Tim, Florrie, Christy, Denny and in fact all of the Sullivan family, looked at Arabo's number as it was hoisted first and then said things. Trainer Zimmer hurried to Big Tim's box and also said things. It was a trying moment, but Big Tim, with his usual good nature, said it was all round—we half 15, when Anodyne won the Pansy Stakes in W. H. Snyder's colors, Albert Simons stepped up to the judges' stand and proceeded to bid get some (resh air and incidentally administer several mental kicks on the Pansy Stakes in W. H. Snyder's colors. Albert Simons atepped up to the judges' stand and proceeded to hid the Henry of Navarre filly from $1,500, her entered selling price, up to $3,750, at which point Snyder kept her with a $5 increase. This hig boost netted Fred Burlew, who ran second with Hoeray, just $1,125. Snyder is a turf associate of John E. Madden, hetween whom and Simons there is not the best of feeling. Simons's action was ascribed, therefore, to that cause, inches and the mounts in the first race, there was plenty of betting. Such operators as George Wheelock and Charley Fox het on Consideration. out. He was run to cover on Dahlen's grounder to Babb. The third New York out in the sixth inning was a brilliant running catch by Dobbs, which shut off a run as there was a man on base at the time. An even more propitious outlook for New York was squelched in the eighth. Strang tripled and scored on Bowerman's lift to Hall. Ames singled and Browne hit a liner to deep right. Lumley caught the ball on the run and threw to Mitchell before Ames could scurry back to first. McIntyre struck out Donlin and Mertes in the ninth and Babb disposed of McGann by a pretty throw from deep short.

Mike Donlin got a clout on the head in the second inning that made him see stars. He ran to third from second on a wild pitch. Bergen threw to head him off and the ball hit Donlin on the head so hard that it bounded

There was hitting in sufficient quantity by the New York Americans to win the game from the Philadelphians but a disproportionate output of runs. The Philadelphias were only slightly behind the locals in base hits and ahead of them in runs. The Philadelphias did more with their hits because they distributed them to better effect. Defeat came to the New Yorks, but the game was spirited and in doubt to the finish. The pace became too hot for Hogg when he had pitched five innings, and Powell, who took his place, was hit still harder. The visitors concentrated their fire on Powell in the last two innings, and in those innings the game was won and lost. Eight hits were made off Powell and five off Hogg. Things were pretty warm for Plank all through, and in the ninth inning became still more heated. The New Yorks had a couple of men on bases with nobody out in the ninth, but just here the astute Mack sent Waddell to the box. The Rube was in fine fettle and turned on a stream of zigzagging shoots that cut the New Yorks down in a hurry.

Hoffman's three bagger and an out at first gave a run to the Keystone Krew in the first inning. Two of the latter were thrown out at the plate in the second, one by Conroy and the other by Doughert's time heave from left. Hits by Plank and Davis and a base on balls gave the Philadelphias a run in the fifth. The New Yorks tied the score in their half. Elberfield's single, McGuire's three bagger and Yeager's two bagger were the agencies which brought about the deadlock. The Philadelphias took the lead in the sacrifice and an outfield fiy. The locals immediately tied the score again, the wherefore being Williams's three bagger and Knight's tempestuous toss. Powell hit the inning that it shot over the left field fence and was subsequently recovered in Mars. While it was still bumping against the signs of the Zodiac, Powell rumbled home, and that herculean hoist put the New Yorks one run ahead.

Short lived was the vantage. Socks Seybold, Hans Murphy and old man Knight brushed into the fray with damaging drives in the eighth, and two broa brims loped the limit. Philadelphia's ninth was an encore. Topsy Hartsel tickled the leather for three and dusted home on Hoffman's single. Hoffman stole second and squared the circle on Cross's one timer. Elberfeld was dean of the batting faculty with four bingles. The score:

TROUBLE FOR LEANDER. Two Men on the Sick List-Vespers Cover

Course in 7 Minutes 18 Seconds. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. HENLEY-ON-THAMES, June 30 .- A heary ain early this morning caused the river to run stronger than usual. The Vesper crew went out about 11 o'clock for an hour. They paddled down, sometimes stopping altogether. They made the whole dis-tance up the river at their usual stroke of 34. In the afternoon they did similar work, taking 7 minutes 13 seconds to go up the course. The wind was behind them, but work, taking 7 minutes 13 seconds to go in the course. The wind was behind them, but it was not strong.

The Leander crew did not go out this morn-ing. Escombe, who strained himself Wednes-day, has gone to London to see a doctor about his sprain. He may row again to-morrow. Powell, another of the Leander crew, is suffer-ing from a boil and was unable to row to-day. The changes are causing much trouble to the crew.

Mail Vote on Question of Remitting Ball

President Pulliam has sent out a request to the National League directors for a mail vote on the question of remitting fines of over $10 that have been imposed on players this Pulliam vesterday, "under the Fleischmann resolution, which the judge in Boston declared dead at the time of the McGraw-Dreyfuss case on the ground that a new constitution had been adopted by the league since the resolution was passed. So far mine is the only vote of the directors I have received, but I expect a full vote in by the Fourth of July. I voted to remit, myself."

There will be a nice Fourth of July present coming to a number of players if a majority votes as the president has. The different clubs were to have seen to it that players paid their own fines, but in case there was any oversight due to forgetfulness on the part of any club in this regard, some ball player may be surprised to have sent to him a check for money that did not come out of his own pocket. Pulliam vesterday, "under the Fleischmann
